Inspiring every child with our wonderful cosmos

www.eu-unawe.eu

Pedro Russo
Leiden University, NL
russo@strw.leidenuniv.nl
Use the beauty and grandeur of the Universe to inspire young children and encourage them to develop an interest in science and technology, while reinforcing the idea of global citizenship and tolerance.
NATIONAL PROGRAMMES

36 Countries (6 of them EU-UNAWE)

500+ Educators/Teachers/Astronomers
A platform for sharing ideas, best practices and resources between educators from around the world.
GLOBAL PROJECTS

To broadening children’s horizons beyond their local area and to show them that they are part of a global community.
To give teachers and other educators the confidence to introduce astronomy and other science topics in the classroom, and to create innovative methods for engaging young children in astronomy.
Learning should be exciting and fun. UNAWE encourages learning through play and hands-on activities, such as the UNAWE inflatable Earthball, which has been immensely popular.
To share with children the excitement that the latest scientific discoveries bring, and to demonstrate that there is still much to learn about the Universe – research that they could contribute to in the future.
All educational materials will be available for free on the UNAWE website (creative commons license) and you are free to adapt these to suit your requirements.
Educators can attend training workshops about teaching astronomy to young children.

Use the educational resources available on the UNAWE website.
Why not start a discussion group to analyse the latest Space Scoop with young children?

HOW TO GET INVOLVED: EDUCATORS AND PARENTS
HOW TO GET INVOLVED:
PROFESSIONAL AND AMATEUR ASTRONOMERS

Get in touch with science teachers in local schools and offer to give a talk or run an observing session.
If you are interested in having your science press releases adapted and distributed as a Space Scoop news story.

HOW TO GET INVOLVED: ASTRONOMY INSTITUTES
If you have a fantastic idea for a UNAWE project that isn’t currently listed on the website, then we would love to hear from you!